Reviews

Definitely one of the better publication I have got possibly read. It really is writter in basic phrases and not difficult to understand. You wont sense monotony at anytime of your respective time (that's what catalogs are for about if you request me).

Not illustrated. 1855 Excerpt: .a goodly array of huge amphorae; many now empty, but destined to receive the wine for which Embona is so famous throughout the island. Our host the Papa seemed to know its qualities well; considering Sunday as a feast, he never failed to set his parishioners the jolly example of getting drunk. A large quantity of tobacco was hanging to dry. The village is situated at the immediate base of the highest mountain in the island, anciently Mount Atabyris; called now by the Turks Bozdagh. It is 4068 feet above the level of the sea, as ascertained by Captain Graves survey. Two-thirds of this rises almost precipitously from Embona. The ascent on this side is very difficult, and requires two hours. We commenced it, guided by a man of the village, at about eight A.M. The peak is of bare limestone, worn into holes by the action of the weather and the tooth of time. A few plants are found here and there, and still more rarely some trees, as stunted ilex. When we had reached about two-thirds of the ascent a thick cloud enveloped us, concealing every object except in our immediate vicinity. Our guide, however, was very experienced, and, clinging to the rocks, we proceeded without interruption. The only animal we saw was a hare, which we started from its form, rather a singular locality for such a creature. The cloud suddenly cleared away, and we had a magnificent view of the islands; some...
